

FRANCE READY FOR BLOCKADE

Parts Of Venezuela May Be Closed To All Commerce By French Warships.

ULTIMATUM IS BEING HELD BACK

Caracas Government Must Restore Property Seized From French Subjects, Or That Country Will Resort To Force.

Washington, Oct. 14.—American grievances against Venezuela may be settled by diplomacy, while France, in the absence of any diplomatic relations at Caracas, may yet be compelled to resort to a show of force. Despite the assurances of foreign office officials at Paris, it is stated here that the French ultimatum has been practically ready to dispatch for a week or more, and that France has the full assent of the Washington government to adopt an effective course of action against Venezuela to obtain the renewal of diplomatic relations and the restoration of French property seized by the Caracas government.

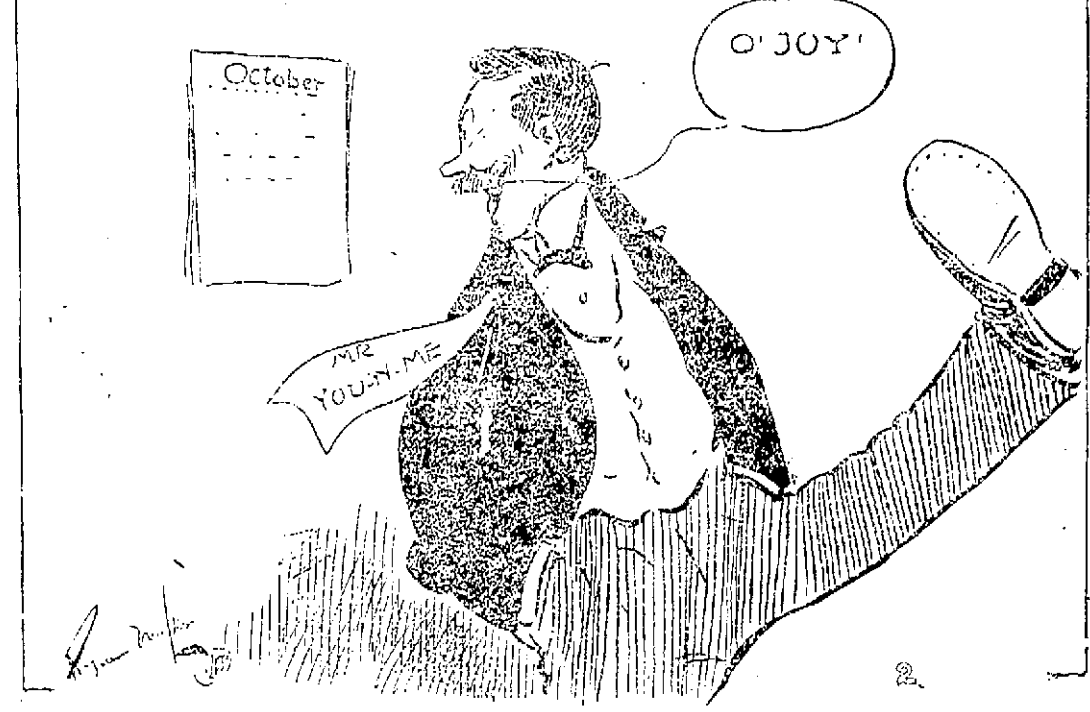

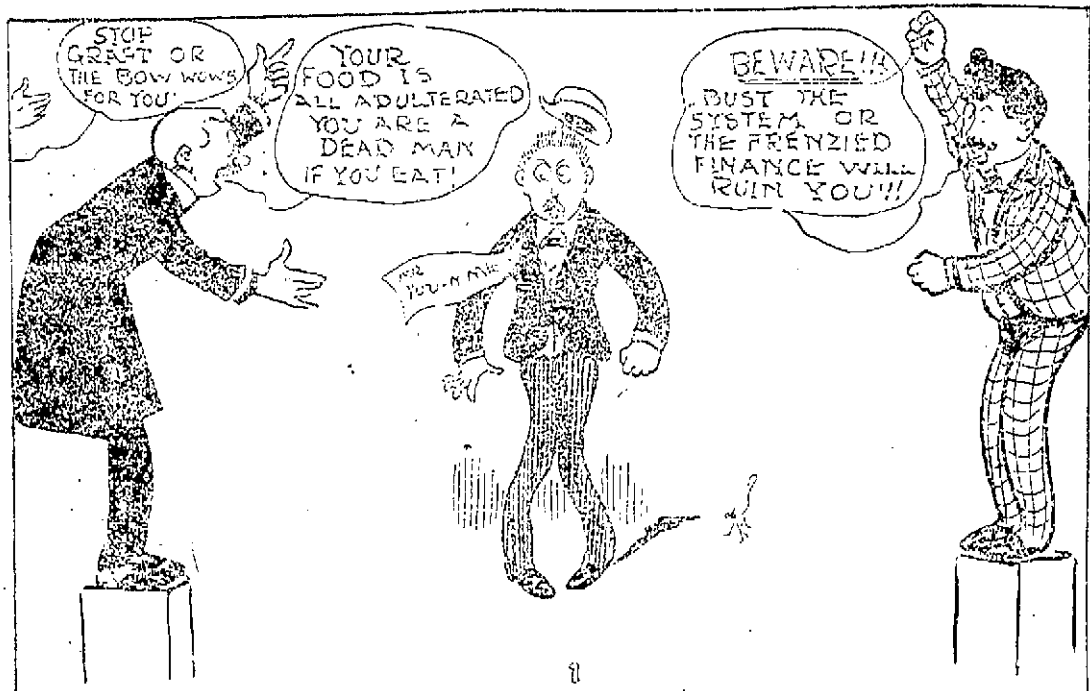

May Have Peaceful Blockade.
This, briefly, is the situation: The French ultimatum will be held up until further conferences have occurred between the French embassy here and the State Department. So far as the report of Judge Calhoun, the American special commissioner, which was discussed at the Cabinet meeting, states, there is nothing in the situation at Caracas that cannot be settled by patient and firm diplomacy. A thorough understanding exists between Paris and Washington on this subject, and even if France finds it necessary to establish a pacific blockade against Venezuela, the Washington government will offer no objection.

In diplomatic circles the opinion is expressed that the Venezuelan president would yield before a pacific blockade is established. The aversion on the part of France and the United States to the use of warships in this case arises from the fact that the blockading of Venezuelan ports at this time will affect the creditor powers, to whom a portion of the customs receipts has been awarded by the Hague tribunal until their claims shall have been paid in full.

Campaign Contributions.
At Friday's cabinet meeting the subject of campaign contributions and the participation of federal judges in political campaigns, with particular reference to the case of Justice Baker of Indiana, was discussed, in addition to several other matters of importance.

It is also reported here that Luke E. Wright, governor of the Philippines, has not yet resigned, but is expected to do so soon after his return to the islands after his visit to Washington.

HENRY IRVING DIES SUDDENLY

Dean Of The English Stage Passes Away
After His Performance At Bradford.

HE SOUGHT TO UPLIFT THE STAGE

Great Protrayer Of Characters Devoted His Efforts To Interest The People In The Betterment Of Mimic World.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
London, Oct. 14.—Sir Henry Irving died suddenly at Bradford Friday night.

The death of the distinguished actor was entirely unexpected. He was engaged in a tour of the provinces, appearing nightly, and a few days ago spoke at a public meeting in advocacy of the movement for a municipal theater.

Sir Henry died literally in harness. He was giving a series of farewell performances in the English provinces and was playing an engagement at Bradford appearing in several favorite roles. Thursday he presented "King Rene's Daughter," and "The Bells," and seemed to be in excellent health, taking the exhausting part of Mathias in the latter play with all the vigor of youth. Friday night, before an enthusiastic audience, he portrayed one of his most characteristically intellectual parts, the title role in his own stage adaptation of Lord Tennyson's "Becket," with marked success.

Dies Without Speaking.
After the performance Sir Henry returned to his hotel, reaching his room at 11:30 o'clock, when it was observed that he was in great pain. Physicians were immediately summoned, but before they could arrive Sir Henry was seized with an attack of syncope and expired, without having uttered a word, in the presence of Bram Stoker, who has been his immediate manager for many years, and a few other intimate friends. The event caused the greatest pain and consternation among the members of the company.

To the last moment of his life Sir Henry Irving's heart was in the work to which he had devoted his career—raising of the standard of his art. On Wednesday he was entertained at luncheon in the Bradford town hall, at which the mayor presented him an address from his admirers.

In replying to the address Sir Henry spoke of himself as one of the sands of whose life were fast running out, but no one then present had the slightest idea that the end would come so soon. He proceeded in his reply to eloquently advocate the establishment of theaters by municipalities, "because," he said, "I believe that by this means the standard of true drama as distinguished from miscellaneous entertainments would be successfully upheld."

Pleads for Uplifting Stage.
"Money is spent like water for all kinds of philanthropic and educational objects," he continued, "but who among you ever dreams of endowing the theater? I am sure the time will come when you will regard the theater as necessary to a liberal education, and be prepared to consider any reasonable suggestions for the extension of its legitimate influence. It may be that in years to come our countrymen will scarcely understand how in our times so potent an instrument of good or ill as the stage was left entirely outside the sphere of public administration."

Sir Henry's last appearances in London were made last summer, following his serious illness, when the enthusiasm at the nightly reception accorded him in the historic Drury Lane theater will long be remembered. Since then he had been engaged in touring the provinces and contemplated another visit to the United States. The English speaking world has suffered an irreparable loss by the death of Sir Henry, who was universally regarded as the most representative English actor of contemporary times.

A WAR AMONG THE COTTON INSURANCE ASSOCIATIONS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 14.—The Cotton Growers' Insurance Association, representing the combined interests of forty-two leading fire insurance companies met here today to consider the subject of insurance of cotton, and the advisability of increasing the association's scope to marine cotton. Trouble of long standing prevails between the domestic companies operating in the South and the marine companies for control of the business. The marine companies, it is said, take the shore end of the cotton insurance risk, thus placing a policy on cotton from the moment it leaves the gin until it is landed in the hands of foreign consumers. The domestic companies contend that they are entitled to the shore end of the insurance, and on this the threatened war, involving all the cotton insurance business in the South hangs.

FATHER HAS ELDER; MOTHER YOUNGEST

Judge Eason Gives "Toodles" to His Mother—End of Taggart Divorce Case.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 14.—Judge Eason has decided to leave Elmore F. Taggart, Jr., in the custody of his mother in this city. The elder, Charles Culver, may go with his father to Columbus barracks. The judge said the boys will remain in the custody of the court and the present arrangement would be changed at any time the court sees fit.

Washington, Oct. 14.—It is likely that the Taggart trial will be all thrashed over again in the military courts, which will try Miner and Fortesque.

The judge said both boys will be considered in the custody of the father, the younger being considered as an indefinite visit to his mother. Both must go to school.

History of the Case.
The suit by Maj. Taggart was filed in July, 1904, and the charge was that of unbecoming a wife and excessive use of intoxicants. Mrs. Taggart filed a counter petition on the ground of cruelty and neglect. The case has been of exceptional interest because of a statement during the trial by Maj. Taggart that the use of intoxicants in the army was so common as to be almost the custom. Maj. Taggart alleged that his society girl bride learned to drink like a trooper and smoke cigarettes like a messenger boy. He named Lieut. Louis N. Dash, who recently married Bertha Randle, author of "The Helmet of Navarre," and other novels. Bash met Mrs. Taggart in the Philippines three years ago. He also alleges that she committed indiscretions with Gen. Miner and Lieut. Granville R. Fortesque, a cousin of President Roosevelt. He charged that Mrs. Taggart at Fort Leavenworth took part in a hard drinking contest with other women of the post in a room connected with the canteen and entered into a conspiracy with Gen. Miner and Lieut. Fortesque to have him locked up as a victim of alcoholism.

The trial lasted seven weeks. The case went to the court a month ago. The suit was first started in July, 1904, by Maj. Taggart, who filed a petition for divorce, charging his wife with conduct unbecoming a wife and alleging the excessive use of intoxicants.

TO MAKE HUNDREDS DESERT THE MINES

New Pennsylvania Law Which Takes Effect Tomorrow Makes Many Minors Illegal Workmen.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Freeland, Pa., Oct. 14.—Much alarm is felt among coal workers and operators over the new law which goes into effect tomorrow. As a result many of the mines will be compelled to close down. The new law requires all workers inside and outside of the mines under 21 years of age to be able to read and write English, and be conversant with mathematics. The reading clause alone, if literally followed, would deprive more than seventy per cent of the employees. It is contended that not more than two out of every ten boys understand fractions.

VANDERBILT RACE LAST SPEED EVENT

Manufacturers Have Learned All They Wish from Fast Running—Now for Endurance.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 14.—It is freely predicted that the automobile race today for the Vanderbilt Cup will be the last great international speed competition held anywhere in the world. Experts claim that the manufacturers have learned all there is to be gained from speed racing, and have embodied this knowledge in the latest models. Competition, they say, in future, will be in long distance tours. The Nassau circuit is said to be far superior to the average circuit in France, and as a consequence the Vanderbilt route has been hailed as the final battle ground of the speed giants of the year.

The Race.
Nineteen automobiles, representing the United States, Germany, France and Italy, started this morning on the course of 283 miles for the Vanderbilt cup. Society was out in full force. The weather is ideal. Car fifteen, ninety-horsepower, a Pope-Toledo, with Lytle as driver, lidded on the road at Bullshead, throwing the merchant tailor, who was taken to the hospital in a serious condition. Foxhall Keene crashed into a telephone pole but escaped injury. Lancia was injured. Lancia was in the hundred-horsepower F. L. A. T. and leading in the last round, having covered the distance of seven rounds in 2 hours 49 minutes and 52 seconds. Lancia and Christie collided outside Lakeville, but nobody was hurt. Lancia kept up a terrific pace from the start and became a favorite. In the first round Wagner's tire slipped and the second he was forced to withdraw. Keene's machine was badly hurt when it hit the pole. Henry was in an eighty-horsepower Darracq and was in the lead at the end of the eighth round.

Henry Wins.
Henry won the race, his time being 4 hours 36 minutes and 8 seconds. Heald, the American, driving a hundred-and-twenty-horsepower Panhard, was second and Lancia third. Heath's performance was a surprise, as he ran fourth until near the latter part of the race.

The report that Tattersall was seriously hurt has been proven untrue. He crashed a dog and splattered blood on the occupants of the machine, which caused the report.

NEWSPAPER REPORTERS MAY ATTEND MEETINGS OF RUSSIAN NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Great Restrictions Are Placed On The Body By The Czar Through Himself And Others.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Petersburg, Oct. 14.—The election of members of the proposed national assembly are scheduled for today and the first meeting will be held here next month. The czar has the right to dissolve or prorogue the assembly, as well as to determine the length of the session according to the amount of business to be done. The assembly president may permit newspaper reporters to attend the sessions, except such as are declared secret by the president of a minister for reasons of state.

WILL KING HAVE TEAM STRONG ENOUGH TO BEAT CHICAGO?

VANDERBOOM BACK IN GAME

Will Play Against Chicago—Remp the Wonder of the Season—Jones
Has Been Fired.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 14.—Viewed from the daily work of the team during the past week the University of Wisconsin has scarcely a forlorn hope of winning the first intercollegiate contest of the year, with Chicago here next Saturday. To the observer of the scrimmages between the disorganized varsity and the scrubs and freshmen at Camp Randall, the present outlook is dark indeed. With one exception the work was mediocre and discouraging to those who have watched the teams turned out by King for seven years up to two years ago. Tuesday there was good work, and of that day's showing it is rumored that the head coach said: "If the fellows play against Chicago as they did today, we will win, providing Chicago does not greatly improve from what I saw at Marshall field Saturday." It is not important, however, that good work was done Tuesday, for the appearance of the varsity on Thursday was such as to throw the head badger in the dumps. The varsity had to struggle along, resorting to trick plays that are displeasing to critics, in order to make one touchdown each day, and even the mature freshman line presented by Coach Driver was strong enough to hold the varsity on nearly even terms. Of course there were several veterans absent from the varsity, but Vanderboom was in. The captain is not working hard and it is constantly given out as doubtful whether he can play against Chicago. From the fact that the coaches are using both Clark and Findlay at halfback strongly indicates that the coaches have practically discounted Vanderboom for the Chicago game, else they would send one of the veterans to left end, which has never been played satisfactorily this season. Careful examination of the wolf stories emanating from the badger training grounds, including the wall about injured stars and the lack of material for a second eleven against which the varsity may get good practice, lead to the conclusion that the stories of misfortune are genuine, not sent out as the basis of "surprise" for Chicago, and it is only the tradition that Phil King never fails to deliver the strong eleven at the crucial moment that keeps hope burning in the breast of the badger roster.

The exhibition of insubordination Thursday, when Jones refused to practice because of a cut over the eye and was promptly fired for the season by Assistant Coach Holt, it is not significant of bad discipline in the badger camp. The esprit de corps of the squad this season has been admirable. There have been heard no complaints of favoritism and no refusals to do the work called for by the coaches in so far as the men were able and knew-how. Jones magnified his injury, failed to notify the coaches that he thought he was entitled to lay off, and perhaps Holt was a bit out of patience with the candidate who has not shown great willingness to work. The marvel of the team this year has been "Dick" Reing, who during the summer declared that he knew he had no chance for the team with King as coach, and announced his intention of going to California to enter the prize ring. He went, but came back shortly, did some preliminary physical work on his own hook, showed up at the camp at Marinette, never disputed or answered back to a coach and has been recognized as the most earnest worker in the squad. He has had a cinch on his place at center all the season.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes. Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gasses and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system. Charcoal sweetens the breath after eating smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic. It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh. All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey. The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from the continued use of them, but one the contrary, great benefit. A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some cases a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

COLLEGE DAYS OF A FRESHMAN

"HANS" OF J. H. S. '04 GIVES A
GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION.

MOUTHFUL OF MADISON MUD

Was His Portion When He Tried to
Yell "09" in Great Rush—Terrific Struggle with Seven Sophs.

Through a chain of unusual circumstances, which need not be explained here, the Gazette is enabled to present a true and fascinating picture of the freshman's life at the University of Wisconsin. It is contained in a letter from "Hans," a town of Center boy who graduated from the Janesville High school in 1904 and went to Madison this fall, written to one of his old chums in this city. Several of the nicknames used from time to time belong to Janesville boys. His description of the great rush is as vivid as the faded panorama of Gettysburg. With the forward that the varsity "back" is college parlance for "sandy" and that one must take the disparaging references to the exercise with a grain of salt, it being bad form to pretend to be much of a student, even though one is in reality a veritable bookworm, the little journal will be allowed to speak for itself:

"Madison, Wis., October, '05.
"Dear Skinker:
"I was reading M—s copy of the Afton Blatter last night and saw by it that I owed you a letter containing a story. Well, I have out that sort of thing since I came up here, so can't think of any just now. I just performed a miracle—that is I stopped Ruge from bucking long enough to write to you. He thinks I'm fierce. I don't buck at all, but I'm still coming along. Chemistry hasn't started yet so I have a little more time than usual for my other work. I suppose they will stick it into us when the new building is finished.
"English is a lurch"
"English is a lurch and so is Dutch but Algebra is a terror. They started us in 175 pages ahead of where they did the fall students and we were both supposed to have the same in the high school. The entrance exam was awful but I managed to get through. Ruge is going to take me down to the 'Pal' some night, though, for he bet I would get 70 in it and I didn't. The passing mark was 45.
"Will 'Let' Vanderboom Play
"I suppose you know I am working on the training table. I think I will let Vanderboom play a week from Saturday. I have him out practicing signals now. Ahem! I like the life up here pretty well. I am the only '09 in this house, but they have not dared lay hands on me. My dignified, cool, reserved manner forbids familiarity.
"Held Haze Freshies
"The bunch that lived with Ruge last year were over to SNE me one night but I was away. The night before I was out with a bunch of Sophs, hazing Freshies. We got seven from Milwaukee and took them over to Chaboune. We had a most excellent program. They all thought I was '08. But the Rush! Well, we all gathered in the Gym at 4 p. m. We all dished our faces with red paint (to cover up the greenness) and were told to hold our tempers and heads and then they turned us loose. We didn't have any organization to speak of '08 wouldn't have lasted 10 minutes.
"One Pair Trousers Mutilated
"08 had a big four-inch hose trained on the door and the moment they opened it we got it right in the face. I was the second out of the door and got it full in the face. But we put our heads down and rushed for it. I grabbed two legs and tried to throw the fellow but found out that I had two fellows. I threw them down but they got the best of me. But they couldn't take me to the lake. I saw one fellow's pants half off and they kept yelling for help. Finally seven of them got hold of me, 4 on my legs, 2 at my arms, and one at my head. I yelled '09 and the one at my head filled my mouth with mud.
"Head Never Went Under
"Well, they took me to the lake and threw me in, but not head-first. My head never went under. When I got my breath in and some mud out I got revenge by dunking 6 Sophs. I have half of one fellow's shirt for a souvenir. As far as the ducking goes, nearly everyone got it, '08 and '09. Next we tried to get their banner which was up on the telephone wires. The pole was covered with '08 fellows who had clubs and one fellow had boots. We got to the pole several times and several fellows started up. We pulled down two or three fellows. (We got one fellow's pants but not him.) The fellow with boots on would stamp on the fellows' fingers and kick them in the face or on the head. And when we got him down they held him under water until he was senseless. They say he had two ribs broken, but I don't believe it.
"Fighting On the Wires
"Besides trying to storm the pole, some of the fellows climbed a tree about 50 feet away and tried to cross on the guy wires, and there were some of the best tight wire performances I ever saw. One '09 downed two '08s before he was thrown down. Then the '08s got a file and began cutting the wires. There were three fellows on the last wire, hanging on by their legs and fighting. It was the most spectacular thing I ever saw. When the last wire was cut one fellow got a bad fall but is alright. There wasn't a wire left on the pole. Around the base it looked like a pig wallow and the tree was about half its leaves and branches.
"Truce and After-Reflection
"About 6 o'clock the upper classmen proposed that we call it a draw and give them the banner, which we did. I think it was a fair decision, too. The Sophs had the best turnout on record and were organized and on the defensive. We outnumbered them, but when we would rush on one side there might be a bunch on other side pushing against us. I honestly think

Was His Portion When He Tried to
Yell "09" in Great Rush—Terrific Struggle with Seven Sophs.

Through a chain of unusual circumstances, which need not be explained here, the Gazette is enabled to present a true and fascinating picture of the freshman's life at the University of Wisconsin. It is contained in a letter from "Hans," a town of Center boy who graduated from the Janesville High school in 1904 and went to Madison this fall, written to one of his old chums in this city. Several of the nicknames used from time to time belong to Janesville boys. His description of the great rush is as vivid as the faded panorama of Gettysburg. With the forward that the varsity "back" is college parlance for "sandy" and that one must take the disparaging references to the exercise with a grain of salt, it being bad form to pretend to be much of a student, even though one is in reality a veritable bookworm, the little journal will be allowed to speak for itself:

"Madison, Wis., October, '05.
"Dear Skinker:
"I was reading M—s copy of the Afton Blatter last night and saw by it that I owed you a letter containing a story. Well, I have out that sort of thing since I came up here, so can't think of any just now. I just performed a miracle—that is I stopped Ruge from bucking long enough to write to you. He thinks I'm fierce. I don't buck at all, but I'm still coming along. Chemistry hasn't started yet so I have a little more time than usual for my other work. I suppose they will stick it into us when the new building is finished.
"English is a lurch"
"English is a lurch and so is Dutch but Algebra is a terror. They started us in 175 pages ahead of where they did the fall students and we were both supposed to have the same in the high school. The entrance exam was awful but I managed to get through. Ruge is going to take me down to the 'Pal' some night, though, for he bet I would get 70 in it and I didn't. The passing mark was 45.
"Will 'Let' Vanderboom Play
"I suppose you know I am working on the training table. I think I will let Vanderboom play a week from Saturday. I have him out practicing signals now. Ahem! I like the life up here pretty well. I am the only '09 in this house, but they have not dared lay hands on me. My dignified, cool, reserved manner forbids familiarity.
"Held Haze Freshies
"The bunch that lived with Ruge last year were over to SNE me one night but I was away. The night before I was out with a bunch of Sophs, hazing Freshies. We got seven from Milwaukee and took them over to Chaboune. We had a most excellent program. They all thought I was '08. But the Rush! Well, we all gathered in the Gym at 4 p. m. We all dished our faces with red paint (to cover up the greenness) and were told to hold our tempers and heads and then they turned us loose. We didn't have any organization to speak of '08 wouldn't have lasted 10 minutes.
"One Pair Trousers Mutilated
"08 had a big four-inch hose trained on the door and the moment they opened it we got it right in the face. I was the second out of the door and got it full in the face. But we put our heads down and rushed for it. I grabbed two legs and tried to throw the fellow but found out that I had two fellows. I threw them down but they got the best of me. But they couldn't take me to the lake. I saw one fellow's pants half off and they kept yelling for help. Finally seven of them got hold of me, 4 on my legs, 2 at my arms, and one at my head. I yelled '09 and the one at my head filled my mouth with mud.
"Head Never Went Under
"Well, they took me to the lake and threw me in, but not head-first. My head never went under. When I got my breath in and some mud out I got revenge by dunking 6 Sophs. I have half of one fellow's shirt for a souvenir. As far as the ducking goes, nearly everyone got it, '08 and '09. Next we tried to get their banner which was up on the telephone wires. The pole was covered with '08 fellows who had clubs and one fellow had boots. We got to the pole several times and several fellows started up. We pulled down two or three fellows. (We got one fellow's pants but not him.) The fellow with boots on would stamp on the fellows' fingers and kick them in the face or on the head. And when we got him down they held him under water until he was senseless. They say he had two ribs broken, but I don't believe it.
"Fighting On the Wires
"Besides trying to storm the pole, some of the fellows climbed a tree about 50 feet away and tried to cross on the guy wires, and there were some of the best tight wire performances I ever saw. One '09 downed two '08s before he was thrown down. Then the '08s got a file and began cutting the wires. There were three fellows on the last wire, hanging on by their legs and fighting. It was the most spectacular thing I ever saw. When the last wire was cut one fellow got a bad fall but is alright. There wasn't a wire left on the pole. Around the base it looked like a pig wallow and the tree was about half its leaves and branches.
"Truce and After-Reflection
"About 6 o'clock the upper classmen proposed that we call it a draw and give them the banner, which we did. I think it was a fair decision, too. The Sophs had the best turnout on record and were organized and on the defensive. We outnumbered them, but when we would rush on one side there might be a bunch on other side pushing against us. I honestly think

Other games to be played today are: Chicago and Indiana at Marshall field, Northwestern and Beloit at Evanston, Michigan and Vanderbilt at Ann Arbor, Minnesota and Ames at Minneapolis, Illinois and St. Louis university at Champaign, Nebraska and Knox at Lincoln, Wabash and Purdue at Lafayette, Drake and Des Moines at Des Moines, Monmouth and Lombard at Monmouth, Lawrence and Oskosh at Appleton, Oberlin and Ohio Wesleyan at Oberlin, Lake Forest and Northwestern Military academy at Lake Forest, Yale and Holy Cross at New Haven, Princeton and Bucknell at Princeton, Harvard and Springfield Training at Cambridge, West Point and Virginia Polytechnic at West Point, Syracuse and Hamilton at Clinton, Amherst and Bowdoin at Amherst, Lehigh and Haverford at Haverford, Pennsylvania and North Carolina at Philadelphia, Annapolis and Dickinson at Annapolis, Columbia and Williams at New York, Lafayette and Jefferson Medical at Easton, Carlisle and Virginia at Richmond, and Brown and Maine at Providence.

HANDCUFFED NEGRO
DIVED THRO' WINDOW

Bud Smith, After Locating Stolen
Jewelry for Officers, Took Chance to Give Them the Slip on Train

Two or three dozen gold watches and chains, a number of rings, and other jewelry, which had been stolen from Crystal Lake and Ft. Atkinson, were recovered in the C. & N. W. railroad yards last evening. Bud Smith, the burly negro who was arrested in Ft. Atkinson several days ago with stolen goods on him and brought to Janesville yesterday acted as unwilling guide for the little party consisting of City Marshal Appleby and two officers from Crystal Lake. It appears that the colored man, after finishing a successful job at Crystal Lake, went to Madison and thence to Ft. Atkinson, where he burglarized another jewelry store. Putting his plunder in a couple of bags he sought the railroad yards in the latter place and found a caboose which for some reason had been deserted by the train hands. Under one of the bunks he or his accomplice secreted the bags and after taking the number of the caboose, departed just as the train pulled out. By some lucky chance the caboose happened to be in the local yards last night. A train crew had been using the car for three days without stumbling on the stolen jewelry, which was found in the place indicated by the negro and will be returned to the owners. The mission having been completed the officers departed with their prisoner on the 6:40 train, their destination being the Woodstock jail. The negro was handcuffed, but he was willing to take a chance. As the train was passing through Sharon at something like a 40-mile an hour rate he hurried himself head-first through a window. As soon as the train could be stopped the officers ran back to the place, where their ward had disappeared, and found him just regarding consciousness. He was again taken aboard the train and not long thereafter was safely housed in the Woodstock jail.

MILLIONAIRES WILL

J. G. Phelps Stokes and His Bride
Return from Europe to Slums of New York City.

New York, Oct. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes, the latter formerly Rose Pastor, the cigar manufacturer, took possession of their six-room flat at Grand and Norfolk streets today. There are twenty-four tenants. All Jews, except the janitor. The neighbors will give a reception to the couple tomorrow. Mr. Stokes' fortune is estimated at seven millions, but he is devoting his life to settlement work.

STOCK SHOW THAT IS AN AFFAIR OF NOTE

Great International Exhibit in Chicago Attracts Considerable Attention.

That the International Live Stock Exposition has found a warm spot in the hearts of the live stock and agricultural people of the United States, Canada and across the water brethren is emphasized as never before by the very much increased inquiry as to rates and dates and the enormous number of congratulatory letters on the construction of the New Coliseum. That the Exposition is filling its mission by its annual lessons clearly taught to the thinking man is acknowledged by the leading educators of the country. The show comes at a time when it is convenient not only for the father to attend, but to bring the boys and mother and the girls to see and learn all about the wonderful strides being made on domestic animal production. This year it is held from December 2d to 5th at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, and possibly this year's show means more to the people at interest than any previous event of its character in their history, as a joining of hands with those who show by their acts that they are willing to strengthen your hands in the development of the Live Stock industry should be taken advantage of by every farmer-stockman in the country. Low rates which will be given by the railways will be advertised later. The following interview with Prof. H. H. Wing of Cornell shows what the East thinks of this Exposition:

"Students of animal husbandry will look forward with much pleasure to the completion of the new building in which the International Live Stock Exposition will be held this year. From personal experience I am convinced that there is no place where the students of Animal Husbandry, and by the students of Animal Husbandry I would include every man who breeds animals, can learn so much in so short a time as at this show. The facilities for a close inspection and study of high class animals will this year be immensely improved, and the stock men of America should, and no doubt, do appreciate the liberality of the Union Stock Yards in providing such ample facilities in advance of the completion of the membership asked by them from the stock men as a guarantee of the continuance of the show."
Professor Herbert W. Mumford of Illinois is quoted in the following short but pithy comment on the International:
"It is at the International that breeders and buyers mingle to mutual advantage. The breeder becomes better informed as to approved market types, and thus the International becomes a potent factor in giving direction to the breeders' efforts toward live stock improvement."

Bargains in Used Weber Pianos.
The operatic artists of the great Conried Metropolitan Opera Company returned a number of Weber Upright Pianos to Lyon & Healy; also the recent moving period in Chicago resulted in a number of rented Weber Uprights being returned; in addition to this all of the Weber Uprights taken in exchange for several months past have recently been overhauled in Lyon & Healy's factory and sent to the Warehouses for sale.
The result of these three sources of supply is that Lyon & Healy are now holding a great Weber sale.
Everyone knows that the Weber is one of the finest pianos in the world, by many it is preferred to any other. So this Weber sale affords to music lovers a chance to secure a magnificent piano at about the price usually paid for an ordinary instrument. Any one who is interested in a fine piano should not hesitate to write to Lyon & Healy about these Webers. A great many different styles are included in this offering.
Easy monthly payments will be accepted from responsible persons who do not care to pay all cash.
Write today to Lyon & Healy for their price list of Weber and other pianos slightly used, that figure in their special thirty-day offer, 10 Adams street, Chicago.

SCIENCE SCORES AGAIN.
A Preparation That Will Destroy the Dandruff Germ Discovered.

Finally the scientific student has discovered a certain remedy for dandruff. When it first became known that dandruff is the result of a germ or parasite that digs into the scalp and saps the vitality of hair at the root, causing falling hair and baldness, biologists set to work to discover some preparation that will kill the germ. After a year's labor in one laboratory, the dandruff germ destroyer was discovered; and it is now embodied in Newbro's Herpicide. It prevents baldness, stops falling hair and speedily eradicates dandruff. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

If you don't know what you want, try Mrs. Austin's Pancake flour for a really good breakfast.

THE BIRTH

of the Genuine Round Oak thirty-four years ago marked the change in heating of stoves from crudity to perfection. No other stove will burn all kinds of fuel with economy, success and satisfaction to the user.

In using coal, for instance, it has a double fire pot with center grate, which prevents the formation of clinkers and gives the hottest fire around the outside of fire pot, instead of in the center.

It has a hot blast, used for soft coal only. The air is taken in at the feed door, carried around the top of the fire pot and discharged on top of fire through a series of openings. This burns the soot and gases, and makes the smoke white, thus a steady, even fire can be maintained with the hot blast alone, burning coal from the top downward.

Then, for hard coal with or without magazine, and coke or wood, it is equally successful.

You simply cannot afford to pass the ROUND OAK by, if you need a heating stove.

Always look for the name "ROUND OAK" on the leg. There are hundreds of imitations.

"Yes, Fritz, you guessed it. That is the Round Oak Office Building. Tomorrow we will see the shops where the Round Oaks are made."

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, October 14, 1865.—Sorghum Machinery.—We have received from Messrs. Skinner & Co. of the Mendota Agricultural Works, Madison, a somewhat lengthy reply to our article a few days since, relative to the action of the committee which passed upon Sorghum Machinery.

The first inquiry these gentlemen make is whether we saw the machinery work five minutes; to which we reply that we not only did, but spent considerable time about the sorghum camp, observing operations carried on, and thought it noticed the gentlemen feeding Messrs. Skinner & Co.'s mill were very careful how they fed, which was not the case with the Carris & company's mill, great bundles of cane being thrust in at a time. This ought to make considerable difference with the look on the bagasse or cane after the juice had been expressed.

The writer thinks us at fault as to the expression of spectators regarding the working of the two mills, for they say "allowing us to be the judges, ninety-eight of every hundred that visited the Fair for the purpose of ascertaining the relative merits of the sorghum machinery on exhibition, gave us the palm, as compared with Messrs. Harris & company's." In reply to this we would say that a disinterested spectator would be as likely to hear an unbiased expression of opinion as the owner of the mill.

As to what we said of the composition of the committee, we were speaking on general principles, and not of this particular committee. The writer of the article well knows that this committee ought to be good judges selected without a particle of adaptability to the work before them. The gentlemen he mentions as composing this committee, ought to be good judges of the premises. But if we understand the matter the premium was awarded in this instance for the most complete apparatus, they at the same time giving Messrs. James Harris & Co. the premium for the best syrup, and one of the committee at least giving it as his opinion that their plant was the best on the ground. It strikes us that the balance of the outfit was hard to beat, in which opinion we are not alone, as the Prairie Farmer says:

"The arrangement of machinery by James Harris & Co., struck us as the most convenient of any."

The writer then goes on to say that at the State Fair last year we complimented the machinery of Skinner & Co., and think it no worse now. So far as taking back anything we said then, we are willing to bear testimony now to the fact that their mill is an excellent one, but we still think that the committee misjudged in their award of premium. If we know what the most complete outfit of machinery is, Harris & Co. was certainly entitled to the premium.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

"The Heir to the Moorah" was produced at the Hudson theater, New York, in mid-June and ran on until July 15, outrunning all dramatic offerings of contemporaneous presentation, and setting the record all but one of the especially prepared summer musical shows.

There are many musical comedies constructed for laughing purposes only, and there are many authors who have succeeded in attaining this purpose, and yet on the other hand there have been credited to the dramatic and operatic literatures, men and women of distinction and fame, huge and colossal failures. Paul Schindler and Robert Adams, young men both of whom to fame and fortune heretofore unknown, have achieved in their first effort, "The Geizer of Geck," a success such as seldom comes to the musical comedy. In this musical offering we have a divertissement in which the fun is wholesome, the music full of sparkle, and all in all possessing many features not often incorporated in a musical comedy of today. A tangible plot runs through the action of the piece, sufficient to maintain the interest until the final curtain, yet not enough to tax the brain in an effort to follow it. Julius Schmidt, a sausage-maker from Elgin, Ill., is shipwrecked off the coast of Geck and wins the compliments of the Sultan by supplying him with toothsome sausages. The ruler is delighted and appoints Schmidt, Geizer, or assistant ruler. The sausage-maker negotiates for the purchase of a harum and rules with the high hand until he encounters a young American in Elmona who thwarts the Geizer girl, his designs on the Geizer girl. This opposition, together with the arrival of the Geizer's wife and the children from Elgin, causes the impetuous Geizer to resume his humble citizenship. The love story is sweet and interesting and furnishes much enjoyment as do the antics of two comedy clowns. Many novelties are introduced in the shape of unique dances and original costumes and all this with a superb cast of excellent artists together with a singing chorus of sixty beautiful American girls, make "The Geizer of Geck" an entertainment of unusual worth. The original cast in its entirety, together with a lavish production and efficient stage management, will be in evidence when this play will come to the Myers Grand on Thursday, October 15.

This evening the Smith-Marshall all-star vaudeville company presents its performance at the Myers Grand. They were delayed in opening last night owing to an accident to their moving picture machine, but they gave a matinee this afternoon that was more than pleasing. Among the acts scheduled for tonight is the LaVigne, Riley and LaVigne all-star

Labor Notes

The coming winter in the great industrial centers of England is anticipated with alarm owing to the large number of unemployed. Omens of coming disorders are heard, now that all hopes of the speedy and vigorous revival of trade have been abandoned.

According to a West Australian paper the amalgamation of the two big goldfield unions is on the eve of accomplishment. The new union will be called the Western Miners' Federation of Workers, and will probably start with a membership of at least 5,000.

The report of the Antwerp Sailors' Home (Zeemanshuis) for the year 1904 states that in the course of the twelve months the establishment was visited by 1,342 seamen, and the average number of boarders per day was 32.

Eight hundred women, the wives of unemployed workers, met on the Thames Embankment, London, recently, and sent a deputation to the Prime Minister and the opposition leader, to urge them to pass the Unemployed Workers' Bill.

The New York Trousers Makers' Union has struck for an advance of wages, a ten-hour workday and recognition of the union. There are 8,000 trouser makers out in 250 shops. The Children's Jacket Makers' Union, which has a membership of 5,000, has ordered a general strike to go into effect for higher wages and recognition of the union.

VERY ANNOYING.
This Hardly Expresses What Janesville People Say of it.

Any itches of the skin is annoying. Little danger in itching skin diseases.

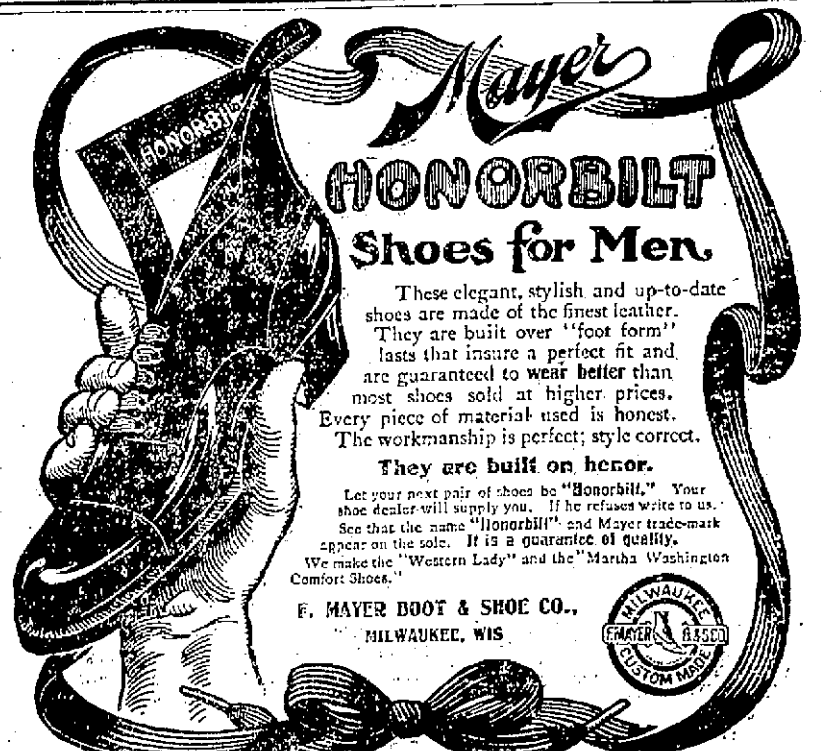

But they make you miserable. Doan's Liniment is a never-failing cure.

For Piles, Eczema, all itching troubles.

Janesville citizens endorse it. L. Lawrence of 403 S. Franklin St., engineer at the Janesville Electric Light Co., says: "I tried about everything recommended for itching of the skin, but found nothing to give me relief until I struck Doan's Ointment at the People's drug store. I had an affection of the skin on my face, caused from the burning oil about the engine and dynamo. My face itched and annoyed me, and rubbing it only made it worse and made it sore. I could hardly stand shaving for the skin broke and bled. A few applications of Doan's Ointment removed the itching and healed up my face in a few days. I would not be without this remedy in my house and I certainly recommend it to others in need of such a preparation."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Getting the Most Out of Fuel.

The question of ventilating in winter has become as important as that of heating. Windows and doors cannot be kept open, so some method of obtaining a pure atmosphere must be found other than by taking in freezing air.

The best architects and sanitarians recommend the liberal use of fire-places. But they do not go far enough. The ordinary fire-place or as it is sometimes called "grate," removes the impure air without bringing in any fresh air, by creating a draft up the chimney, and incidentally it does it by wasting up the chimney fuel 85% of the heat units generated by the fuel used in the fire which creates the circulation.

It remained for the inventor of the Aldine Open Fire-Place to fully solve this question and overcome all these troubles. With the single exception of the Aldine, all fire places and grates are of the Direct Draft principle; that is, their fire pots are directly connected with the chimney flue. Consequently 85% of the products of combustion, drawn by the draft which keeps the fire burning, escape up the chimney, and take with it a great proportion of the air in the room. No air whatever is returned.

The Aldine Open Fire-Place is built on the return draft base burning plan; i. e., indirectly connected with the chimney flue and operated like a base-burning stove. Cooled or cold air is drawn by a strong suction from the floor, heated to a temperature that will destroy all germs and impurities, and discharged perfectly pure and very hot into the room. This is all in addition to the direct heat, that is, the heat discharged directly from the fire itself, which owing to the return draft principle used, is four times as great as can be obtained from the direct draft system.

In short, the Aldine keeps the air thoroughly purified night and day, furnishes four times the heat of any other fire-place on half the amount of fuel by saving 60% of the heat lost up the chimney in all other grates, and furnishes a bright, cheerful fire night and day. To do this requires only two fillings and less than one shuttles of coal per twenty-four hours. The Aldine is not low in price, but it is the cheapest fire place for the money by from 50 to 75% and gives four times the results.

"An example easy to be imitated in its faults" is that of a store-advertiser who uses a page of space on one day and a quarter column on another—store expenses, in other directions being as great on one day as the other, and "necessary income" remaining unchanged.

The Colliers have taken Peruna, and they propose to tell all about it in their next issue.

How the down-trodden people of Wisconsin have managed to exist is one of the unsolved problems which may require the Governor's attention for a fourth term.

The air is full of rumors concerning what Governor La Follette will do. The chances are that he will do a good deal as he pleases. He is the most independent man in the state just now.

While the Dairy and Food Commission is investigating bologna, it might pay them to look into the conditions around the state institutions. The State Board of Control is noted for economy.

The Colliers have taken Peruna, fearing from an attack of acute indigestion when he delivered his Chicago address. He predicts all kinds of dire calamities during the next decade unless his "pet" reform measures are adopted.

The oil inspectors, the game wardens, the rate commission and Bologna board, the civil service commission, and the private secretary, are as busy as bees looking after the welfare of the people at home, while the Governor is rounding up the nation for an epidemic of reform in 1908.

Professor Emery is considerably stirred up over a little criticism. He should remember that the packers have a reputation at stake and that many of them developed a record for honesty long before he became a cog in the reform administration. The bologna epidemic is not likely to prove fatal.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"Throw away your ideals and make money."

"Such was the advice given recently to a young man about starting upon a business career," says the Wall Street Journal. It was the advice of a practical man who had made a success in business. He did not mean to advise the young man that it was good policy to steal and cheat, for such advice as that would, if adopted, inevitably lead to the state prison. If there is any one thing more than another which the practical man who has thrown away his ideals seeks to avoid it is any such violation of the penal code as would make him liable to imprisonment.

"It is probable that the idea which can in the mind of the man of affairs who gave this advice was something like this: That when one enters into business he must, like he who enters Rome, do as the Romans do. He must conform himself to the practices and customs which surround him, and above all he must not attempt to run a little ahead of his time in any rule of ethical conduct. To do otherwise than this would be quixotic. To throw away one's ideals means the discarding of any fine sense of honor which would interfere in any degree with taking advantage of every chance of business. It is our impression that the only trouble with the business situation in this country is that there has been too much of a discarding of ideals. The one thing needed more than anything else to confirm the material prosperity of the United States is the recovery of ideals.

"A business man who has no ideals may do a great many things which one who holds sacredly to his ideals would be powerless to accomplish. The man of high ideals would not take an unfair advantage of a competitor. He would not doctor books, bribe legislatures, or resort to various expedients of making an annual statement to appear better than the real conditions warrant. He would not employ great lawyers to discover some technicality by which the spirit and intent of the law might be violated with impunity. He would not attempt to achieve wealth by methods which would mean oppression to those weaker than himself. The man of high ideals would not enter into trade or finance as a 'crook' enters into a game of chance, with the pretense that all is fair in war or business.

"It seems to us as if notable progress was now being made in the recovery of ideals. We are learning more and more the advantages of the square deal. We must establish this or else there can be no satisfactory solution of any of these problems which now beset us. As we said some time ago, there is not a single question before the country which would not solve itself without legislation, if the people could be persuaded to act squarely towards each other. The insurance problem is not one that calls for much, if any, legislation, if there were only such ideals of the sacredness of the trusteeship of wealth as would make the administrators of these great institutions absolutely faithful to their trusts. There would be no railroad problem, if there was absolutely fair dealing between railroad men and shippers and consumers. The trusts would not appear so monstrous and dangerous if high ideals prevailed in the conduct of affairs.

The age of castle building, which is largely the age of ideals, comes before the age of responsibility, and the art gallery to which it contributes is liberally stocked with pictures of rare beauty.

The young men and women of this or any other age, who do any thinking, very naturally do some planning for the future, and in contemplating the journey, which stretches out before them, they attempt to select the route which seems the most inviting, and which promises the most in the way of safety and successful issue.

If at all observing they note the condition of travelers who have been long on the way, and are not slow to discover that many of them show evidences of hard experiences, while others appear to have traveled first-class the entire length of the journey.

In this age of the ideals, when castle building furnishes liberal occupation, the capital employed is largely composed of hope and a determination to join the ranks of the successful tourists, rather than to become a trailer in the larger procession.

The girl closes her eyes to dream of a modest cottage, not so many years ahead, where she presides as the ideal wife and mother, and the pleasant picture fills her life with song, and her heart with joy for the castle, though modest, represents the highest ideal of womanhood.

If ambitious for a career, she abandons the thought of a home, and with every energy bent to accomplishment, plans and works, while she dreams of the position she will occupy in the field of art, music, or literature, when her ideals are fully realized.

The boy who thinks, also builds castles and indulges in day dreams for the future. These dreams contain glimpses of the same cottage which enchanted the girl, but unless he is a love struck youth, with more sentiment than common sense, he wastes but little time on the cottage.

Observation teaches the boy that the man who owns the cottage, and who finds in it a refuge, and a haven, came into his possessions by the divine right of toil and accomplishment, and so the home to be is simply incidental to the ideal.

If inclined to enter professional life his plans include careful preparation and long years of study, for when he enters the arena he wants to be able to make rapid strides and win recognition early in the race.

If commercial instincts influence his dreams, he recognizes the fact that the men at the front were clerks in offices and stores a few years ago, and that the hard-beaten road to success is along this channel.

When he enters it, ambition prompts him to be more than a clerk, and with a determination, born in the age of ideals, and faithfully nourished, he goes on until his name announces to the world that he is on the list.

If of a mechanical turn of mind, he dreams of invention and discovery, and prepares himself for the great workshop where ideas are more frequently realized because of the masses which toil in this department.

If a farmer's boy, the most difficult problem for him to solve in his dreams, is the fact that a man can be an ideal farmer, and yet a little observation will settle the question, and should inspire him with enthusiasm and content. There's no life so independent, or which promises more in the way of the cottage and the girl.

The trouble with this matter of fact world, with its rugged highways and meandering by-ways, is not the ideal, but it is the constantly shifting scenes, which open up a new panorama, and changes either by force or choice many well laid plans.

A mother said the other day: "When I was a girl I dreamed of a cottage, and the dream came true. For a dozen years we enjoyed it, and as the children came into the home our cup of happiness was complete but death has taken my husband and here we are with castle demolished and ideals shattered." Not an uncommon experience yet always pathetic.

An old man in ruminant mood said: "When a boy I made plans for my life, which, if realized, would have placed me at the front as one of the great financiers of the day, but after half a century of struggle against circumstances which seemed beyond my control, I have given up the fight."

The ideal is all right and entitled to every encouragement, but circumstances frequently defeat ideals, and many people are obliged to make the most of life as it comes to them. The men and women who meet these adverse circumstances with courage and fortitude are the ideal people, and the world has an army of just such people.

Alum baking powders are detrimental to health.

Many consumers use alum baking powders in perfect ignorance. They are allured to the danger by the cry of cheapness, and the false and flippant advertisements in the newspapers. Alum baking powders do not make a "pure, wholesome and delicious food" any more than two and two make ten. Their manufacturers are deceiving the public.

If you wish to avoid this danger to your food,

A Rock County Heroine.

Milton Junction Telephone: Hattie Lentz, a sixteen year old girl, who lives near Janesville is the latest one who has won the right to have her name inscribed upon the roll of those who, seeing an opportunity to render a great service, do so unselfishly and unostentatiously without a thought of reward or personal gain. She discovered a burning bridge on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul track and knowing that an incoming train would be endangered, together with the lives of many people, she waited for an hour on the track and signaled the train in time to avert what might have been a great disaster, might have been a great disaster.

The wonder is, not that there are constantly deeds of heroism which only find recognition in a casual newspaper paragraph, if at all, but that one so young, when unexpectedly confronted by such grave responsibility, should have the judgment and forethought to act as effectively as she did. There are many unrecognized heroes in the world, much unnoticed goodness, but the roll will be incomplete that does not contain the name of Hattie Lentz, of Rock county.

A NEW INVENTION.

Within the last 60 days there has been invented a way of making upper plates of teeth, positively firm and tight in the mouth.

Are your upper plates loose? If so, don't put up with them a day longer when you can have them made tight as wax by Dr. Richards. This is no uncertainty.

It is a positive statement. How to make plates tight in the mouth has been a problem which has taxed the ingenuity of dentists for all these years. Dr. Richards has a right to use this invention in Janesville and his patients can have the benefits of this new advance in dentistry.

Among other reasons why you should have Dr. Richards make your teeth is the fact that instead of charging you $3 extra for extracting your teeth he "extracts your teeth FREE" if you have him make your teeth.

These are two points worth considering, namely:
Tight-fitting work.

Speaking of diamonds an importer said: "Few customers know what they are buying, as long as it is a diamond and shows brilliancy, it goes."

"If one wishes to buy a diamond, about the first thing to do is to go to a dealer in whom you have confidence and can feel that he will tell the truth."

"He may seemingly ask you a little more than some other dealer, but you will find on investigation that he is not asking more than a first-quality of stone is worth."

"The general public know more about diamonds, their color, shape, imperfections and life than they did five years ago. Ladies compare their jewels among themselves and soon learn whether their ring or other piece of jewelry is equal to Mrs. A's or Mrs. B's."

"Many diamonds may be perfect in shape, quality and color and still lack life or brilliancy. Again, in purchasing a stone already mounted in a ring—upon close investigation we find a flaw deftly covered by the claw and scarcely showing. If at all still it is there and known to be there by the setter and generally by the dealer of whom you are purchasing. Never buy a diamond that is in the setting unless you have the utmost confidence in the dealer's honesty."

NEWS OF THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Was Hard On Joe: Joe Waggoner, who formerly beat the drum for the Salvation Army, is no longer a member of the corps. Capt. Smith, the new captain in charge, criticized the conduct of the former drummer before a large crowd at the street corner meeting last night. From the way the Salvation Army had been run here the past few weeks he said he judged God had had nothing to do with it.

Saw Him in Walla Walla: Herbert Hornetter, who was formerly associated with the Guy Brothers in business here, has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast. In Walla Walla, Washington, he ran across Mr. Horne, who had a jewelry store on South Main street about ten years ago. On Sept. 18 he had the novel experience of being out in a heavy snow-storm at Laramie, Wyoming.

LOCALS WON FROM MILTON JUNCTION

Play with High School at Junction Resulted in Victory for Janesville Nine—Score 5 to 0.

At Crescent Park, Milton Junction, yesterday afternoon the Janesville high school football team defeated the Milton Junction high school team by a score of 5 to 0. The locals outplayed their opponents and should have secured three touchdowns but fumbling was the great fault of the game and it was only quick work on the part of Charles Connors, left end, that saved the day. The Dower City team had carried the ball to a dangerous proximity of the Junction goal line early in the game when the pigskin was lost on a fumble. Back and forth the teams then fought to the end of the first half but neither side scored. In the second half Janesville again carried the ball down the field for good gains. They brought it to the goal line and were carrying it over for a touchdown when another fumble occurred. Connors quick as a flash dove the oval and caught it, scoring a touchdown. The try for goal was a failure. No other scores were made in the game. The lineup of the locals was as follows: Charles Connors, left end; Tiernan, left tackle; Woodworth, left guard; Howland, center; Burgess, right guard; Cassidy, right tackle; Landon, right end; Wright, quarterback; Saxby, fullback; Devins, left half; Mahoney, right half. During the game Saxby substituted for Devins at half and Patrick Connors put in fullback. Devins being compelled to leave the game by a slightly sprained ankle. E. J. Hageman and the Milton Junction coach acted as officials.

Corrected Time
Homery and Heath finished 32 seconds apart, but as Homery started 3 minutes after Heath he wins by 3 minutes and 22 seconds.

FAILURE TO SEND CHILD TO SCHOOL

Was Responsible for Charles Homan's Appearance in Municipal Court This Morning.

Charles Homan, who lives on Armour street, appeared in municipal court this morning to answer to a complaint preferred by Truant Officer S. C. Burnham, charging him with having disregarded the law by failing to send one of his daughters to school. As a matter of fact several of his children who are of school age are said to have been kept at home, but the complaint was made regarding only one of them in order to get his case before the court. Mr. Homan protested that he could not afford to keep all his children in school, but finally said he would have the one in question start on Monday. He would not plead guilty to the charge and a plea of not guilty being entered, his case was set for Tuesday. The possible punishment for this offense is six months in jail, but it is probable that if Mr. Homan complies with the law forthwith, the action will be dismissed.

Interior View of English Lutheran Church.

The recent remodeling and redecoration of the St. Peter's English Lutheran church at the corner of South Jackson and Center streets has made the interior of the edifice very handsome and much new furniture and rich altar furnishings add greatly to the appearance. The platform at the front of the auditorium was rebuilt, being rectangular in shape and extending the entire width. A triple Roman arch was constructed over this and the supports are four beautiful columns of the Roman Renaissance style. The furniture, which with the furnishings are entirely of walnut, is also Roman Renaissance. The altar

ARMY COLONEL WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS

Charles D. Towsley to Deliver Lecture on Revolution, at High School Building.

Colonel Charles D. Towsley of Milwaukee is to speak on the Revolutionary war at the high school building on the evening of Friday, October 27. His theme is "Benedict Arnold," but the address is a general view of the war of the liberation with the subject as the central figure. Mr. Towsley is one of the best informed students of early American history that is on the lecture platform and is at present engaged in speaking before high school audiences. Among the cities he will speak in are Milwaukee, Delavan and Beloit. Colonel Towsley is a graduate of West Point and has been in the regular army of the United States for many years, serving in the west. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American conflict he raised a company of volunteers in Milwaukee, but saw no active service with the body.

MADE A STUDY OF A CERTAIN DISTRICT

University of Michigan Students Have Spent Some Time in Wisconsin.

United States Topographer George T. Hawkins, Washington, and W. Nielsen and A. Markham, students in an engineering course of the Agricultural college of Michigan, were in Milwaukee yesterday. For four weeks they have been doing control work in Wisconsin for the geological survey charts to be issued some time next year. They spent a week in the Madison region, a week at Janesville and two weeks in Milwaukee and Washington counties. "Three charts will be issued," said Mr. Markham. "One for the Madison region, one for the Janesville region and one for Milwaukee and part of Washington county. Each covers a region seven miles square. Our work preliminary to the final survey which a party will make next year, and the sheets will not be issued until their survey is completed. Messrs. Markham and Nielsen will enter their class at the college Monday, and are anticipating the hard work necessary to make up the two weeks' study lost by their stay in Wisconsin."

Dr. J. B. Brewer of Jefferson, Became Provoked When Daughter Did Not Graduate—Case Aired in Court

As the result of a controversy over the failure of his daughter to graduate from the Jefferson High School with the class of 1905, Dr. J. B. Brewer, city physician of Jefferson, made an attack on Max M. Muenich, superintendent of schools. This happened several months ago and a complaint for assault with intent to do great bodily injury was lodged against the doctor by the pedagogues. The case came up before Judge Dunnwiddle in circuit court this week and after the complaint had been modified and the defendant found guilty, the court sentenced him to pay a fine and costs amounting to $111.00. After sentence was pronounced the judge advised both principals in the case to shake hands and forget past unpleasantness.

Divorce Granted: George S. Clark of Beloit has been granted a decree of divorce from his wife, Cora M. Clarke. The latter brought an action against him for divorce and the case was dismissed last April. NO LOW GRADE LEAF CAN BE PURCHASED Stock of Cheap Tobacco Accumulated from Several Crops Is About Exhausted.

Scarcely any low grade tobacco now remains upon the local market. An unusual activity among the smoke manufacturers has been very noticeable here for the past several months and stocks, accumulated from several crops, are now about exhausted. In fact this class of goods has been so closely hunted that little now remains, either among the packers or the growers, where a year ago it was somewhat of a drug on the market. The margins on these sales, of course, were small, but the business was heavy and the proceeds of the season have been satisfactory. The past week has been very quiet in Janesville. S. B. Heddles shipped two cars of old goods east; Geo. H. Rumrill sold 1200s of 1902 and bought 750s of 1904, and R. L. Erler sold 400s of 1904.

The Salvation Army, Janesville, Wis. We have been appointed to command the Salvation Army here in this place and indeed we have found it rather discouraging, but we are glad to learn that the people of Janesville appreciate the work of the Army, and are willing to lead a helping hand.

We came from Chicago and God wonderfully blessed our efforts there and we are looking forward to the time when God will visit this place in power, and we will have a harvest of souls.

We are here to serve God and the people. Is any one in trouble? Is any one sick—let us call on us. Is any one unsaved—seek God with all your heart. We understand that meetings have not been held regularly of late but from now on meetings will be held as follows:

Sunday Meetings.

Holiness meetings 11:00 a. m.; junior meeting 2:00 p. m.; Christian praise 3:30 p. m. and regular Salvation Army meetings 8:00 p. m. Meetings every night in the week except Monday. All are cordially invited to attend.

Yours for the salvation of Janesville. Capt. and Mrs. Smith, Lieutenant Krumpen, Cadet Smith.

Officers in charge.

Heavy Fire Loss.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14.—Fire destroyed the Wiggins Ferry company's steamer, the W. McClelland, in dock, entailing a loss of $50,000. Claude Whitte, the watchman, was forced to run through the flames to escape.

Milwaukee reports barley extremely dull; prices declining. While potatoes were offered on the street yesterday at 40¢, the offerings are limited, and good stock in demand as yet not enough new crop offered to establish a market price. Oats in our local market are firm, and few being offered. Raled hay and straw is in moderate demand only and very little taken at top price. Strictly fresh eggs are in demand, but great care should be taken in gathering and selecting for market in order to secure the best price.

Prevent
As Well As Cure
Headache

If subject to headache, take Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills when you feel the first indication of an attack, and you will find that they rarely ever fail to stop further progress.

Pain weakens the nerves, and the longer you suffer, the more frequent will be the attacks.

On the contrary, if the nerves are relieved of this weakening influence, the attacks will be less frequent, and finally disappear altogether.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills contain no opium, cocaine, morphine or chloral in any form. They are absolutely harmless if taken as directed, and will have no other effect, except to drive out the pain.

"Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are all right, and I can recommend them to any one in need of a remedy for headache, neuralgia, or pain of any kind."

Wm. A. Goebl, of Pittsville, Wis., writes: "I do not suffer from that trouble as I used to. They never fail to give relief in a few minutes, and if taken promptly on the approach of headache will prevent an attack from coming on. Pain Pills prevent as well as cure."

NEEDS, PEDRICK, Grovesville, N. Y. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

New York Giants Repeat
Their Record of 1888
and 1889—A Well Balanced,
Hardworking
Aggregation of Plucky
Players.

For the first time since the eighteen New York city possesses a baseball club that has proved its ability to win the championship not only once, but repeat it.

The last time this happened was in 1890, when the Giants added a second championship to their credit after winning the flag in 1888.

That was sixteen years ago, but a comma as compared with a century, but an age as baseball fans are reckoned.

Just about one year ago, after the Giants had won the championship, Will Dahlen, the New York shortstop, made a prediction. He said: "We'll win that flag a second time sure, but we'll have a harder fight for it than we did this year. What will make us stronger in 1905 will be the experience that we have had as a team this season. Pittsburgh will play better ball another year, and so will Chicago and Philadelphia and Cincinnati."

That was a tolerably good offhand prediction. The shortstop fell down on Chicago and Cincinnati, but he was right so far as Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are concerned.

The team has had to fight out of untenable holes and has been successful because it could get the winning run where the contest was close and at a point or two would decide the issue.

For that reason the Giants must be credited with playing better ball this year than they did in the summer in which they first won the championship. The fact that they could not claim the championship so early this season as they did in 1904 is confirmatory proof of the more powerful opposition which they have been compelled to face.

The team's success has been due to the fact that it is a team. It is a demonstration in baseball of the theory of one for all and all for one. It is not a one man or a two man organization, but an admirably balanced,

The novel that made its author famous

Judith of the Plains

BY MARIE MANNING

Another triumph in our arrangements for fiction. We have secured for our columns this

Masterpiece in Novels of the West

Miss Manning has described the life of the plains with vividness and power; the cattle stealing, the terrible cattle stampeding and the tense tragedy of Jim's lynching.—Hartford Times.—It has remained for a woman to write the most vivid, and in the opinion of many westerners, the most accurate story of western life.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.—There is much of the flavor of Bret Harte in this delightful story of the far west.—Boston Transcript.

OBITUARY

Edwin Booker

The remains of Edwin T. Booker will arrive in Janesville Sunday evening. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from 56 Prospect avenue, Rev. J. H. Tippett officiating.

Thomas F. Baker

All that is mortal of the late Thomas F. Baker was laid to rest in Mount Olivet cemetery this morning, funeral services being held from St. Patrick's church at 9:15 o'clock this morning. Rev. Fr. James J. McGinnis was the officiating clergyman. The attendance was large, both the W. H. Sargent Post of the G. A. R. and the W. R. G. being well represented. The pallbearers were Will Drew, Talbert Drew, Dan Drew, John Drew, Mr. Viney and Emory Durdick.

Change of Venue: Because the defendant in the case avers that it is his belief that Judge Fitch is prejudiced and unable to give him a fair trial, the action of Charles H. Stoller against W. D. McGregor to recover some $200 on promissory notes issued in 1901, has been taken to the circuit court on a change of venue.

Big Cotton Mill Burns.
Milan, Oct. 14.—The cotton mill of Signor Cantoni, the largest in Italy, situated at Busto Arsizio, has been destroyed by fire, throwing 3,000 men out of employment.

Special Cotton Agent.
Houston, Tex., Oct. 14.—F. N. Gray has been appointed special field agent in cotton investigation by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, and has taken the oath of office.

Killed by Gas Stove.
Denver, Col., Oct. 14. Mrs. Virginia Cooley, aged 60, was burned to death in her house on South Broadway as a result of the explosion of a gas stove.
